Ingredients

Stir Fry Sauce

- ¼ cup chicken broth
- ¼ cup tamari soy sauce (or coconut aminos)
- 1 tablespoon dry sherry (optional - this isn't required, it's just an extra flavor-boost if you have it)
- 1 tablespoon honey
- 1 teaspoon sesame oil
- 1 teaspoon rice vinegar (or apple cider vinegar)
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch (or arrowroot powder)

Chicken Stir Fry

- 2 tablespoons avocado oil
- 1 pound boneless skinless chicken breast cut into 1-inch pieces
- salt and pepper to taste
- 1 red bell pepper deseeded and chopped
- 1 small carrot thinly sliced
- 2 cups broccoli florets cut into bite-sized pieces
- 1 small yellow onion chopped
- 1 tablespoon finely grated fresh ginger
- 4 garlic cloves minced

Optional Garnish

- 1 tablespoon sesame seeds
- 1 green onion sliced

Instructions

1. Make the sauce. In a small bowl, whisk together the chicken broth, soy sauce, dry sherry, honey, sesame oil, rice vinegar, and arrowroot powder. Set aside.
2. Cook the chicken. In a large skillet or wok on medium high heat, add one tablespoon of oil.

Add the chicken in a flat layer. Season with salt and black pepper, and cook until lightly browned, about 4 to 5 minutes, stirring as needed. Remove the chicken to a plate.

3. Cook the vegetables. Leaving any juices in the pan, add one tablespoon of oil along with the red bell pepper, onion, carrot, and broccoli. Cook the vegetables until tender, about 3 to 4 minutes.
4. Toss it all together. Add the chicken back to the pan with the minced ginger and garlic. Stir for 30 seconds. Pour in the sauce and stir fry for another 1 to 2 minutes, until the sauce thickens.
5. Garnish with green onion and sesame seeds before serving.

Notes

- To store in the fridge: Let it cool completely before storing it in airtight containers. It will stay good in the fridge for 4 to 5 days.
- To freeze for later: This can be frozen for up to 3 months in an airtight container, along with the rice!
- I always use low-sodium tamari soy sauce, so it's not overly salty. This is my favorite brand.
